

Financial Peace University Frequently Asked Questions

What is FPU membership?

When you purchase a Financial Peace University (FPU) membership, you receive all the class materials and access to the FPU online resources you need to succeed. Your membership means that you can attend the FPU class as often as you like. Spouses and engaged couples can attend together with a single membership, and teens living at home are welcome to attend with their parents.

How often do the classes meet?

Classes are typically held once per week for nine consecutive weeks.

How is each class structured?

Each class session lasts approximately an hour and a half. For the first half of the class, Dave Ramsey teaches on DVD. During the second half, class members come together for a small-group discussion and hands-on activities. Group members support and encourage each other as they work to change their financial futures.

What is the average size of the class?

The average class size is between 8–12 families (12–24 people). If a class is larger than 20 people then the class will be divided into smaller groups after the video portion of the class.

What happens if I miss one class? Can I make it up?

As part of your membership to FPU, you'll receive audio discs of all nine lessons. If you miss a class, you can review that week's lesson on CD and share what stuck out to you with your coordinator when you return the following week.

Videos of each lesson are also available in FPU Central. You can view two complete lessons for free and rent additional videos as needed.

How many classes do I need to attend in order to graduate?

You must attend eight of the nine classes to qualify for a graduation certificate.

A couple of times throughout the nine lessons, we will collect financial data to get a cumulative financial view of the class. This data is strictly confidential and will not be tied to any personally identifiable information.
